

Point of difference

Here's a kitchen that will have guests talking

WITH all the important elements of a remarkable kitchen — storage, space and style — Instyle by Apollo Kitchens, the showroom and design arm of the incredibly successful Apollo Kitchens, takes this design one step further with a sprinkling of unique features created to make a lasting impression.

The first ingredient of this successful recipe is the red-hot palette. Vibrant Gloss Rosso was selected for the cabinetry and panels to add interest to the design and to “spice up” an otherwise neutral scheme. More subdued features such as the Nougat

CaesarStone benchtop, brushed aluminium handles and matching kickboards complement the more daring colour choice.

The stack stone splashback with a clear glass cover — for easy cleaning — is another standout feature. Providing the kitchen with a rich dimension of texture and natural beauty, the splashback gives the kitchen a classic, timeless sense.

Finesse and functionality co-exist in this spectacular design. The owners requested plenty of storage space so the team at Instyle by Apollo Kitchens was careful to plan for an abundance of innovative solutions in the design. While the normal host of drawers and cupboards were included, Instyle by Apollo Kitchens fitted them with a range of “smart” Hettich hardware to ensure they operated at the utmost efficiency.

Another talking point is the island's open shelving. With lots of room to display the owners' cookbook collection and other knick-knacks, the shelves make a warm, homely statement.

Designed to stand out from the pack, the kitchen proves that sometimes it pays to be a little different.
